Article II Offer

- If the agreement is concluded in writing, it shall become valid on the day of the signing of the contract by the provider, or on the day the written order confirmation is forwarded by the provider.

- Verbal commitments and agreements with employees of the provider are not binding on the provider, until they have been confirmed by the latter in separately, as soon as the price to be charged is known by them. For the calculation of additional work the regulations under paragraph 1 and 2 of this article shall apply.

4. Cost estimations and calculations will not be charged separately, unless agreed otherwise. In the event of a reorder and the provider is to provide new drawings, descriptions, models, or tools, etc., the relevant costs will be charged.

5. Packaging is not included in the price and will be charged separately.

Returned packaging will not be accepted.

6. Costs of loading, unloading and transport of raw materials, semi-finished products, models, tools and other materials, made available by the client, are not included in the price and will be charged separately. Relevant costs paid by provider are considered to be a prepayment to be charged to the client. Certain issues are at risk of the client. The client shall provide supervision and assistance during the loading and unloading of products.

7. Prices are always based on the figures provided by the client. For deliveries of smaller amounts of products to be processed than agreed upon, the provider is entitled to increase the agreed prices.

Article V Drawings, Calculations, Descriptions, Models, Tools, etc.

1. Info provided in catalogues, illustrations, drawings, measurements and weights, etc., are only binding if they are explicitly included in a contract signed by either party or in an order confirmation signed by the provider.

2. The client guarantees the accuracy and completeness of the data provided in drawings, measurements and weight calculations, diagrams, instructions, etc.

3. Offers issued by the provider, and any manufactured or supplied drawings, calculations, software, descriptions, models, tools, etc., shall remain their property, regardless if costs have been charged. Any given information included or based upon manufacturing and construction methods, products, etc., shall be reserved exclusively to the provider, even if costs have been charged. The client guarantees that intended information, subject to the execution of the agreement shall only be copied, shown to third parties, published, or used, with the written approval of the provider.

Article VI Lead-time

1. The lead-time starts at the latest at one of the following times:

a. The day the agreement was concluded

b. The day the provider receives the necessary records, information, permits, etc., needed for the execution of the order

c. The day of completion of the requested formalities, necessary to start \ the work

d. The day the provider receives the prepayment agreed in the contract, to be paid before starting the works

In the event that a delivery date or week is agreed upon, the lead-time will be the period between the date of the conclusion of the agreement, and the delivery day or week.

2. The lead-time is based on the working conditions in force at the time of the signature of the agreement, and on the timely delivery of the materials ordered by the provider for the execution of the work. In the event of delay, not caused by the provider but caused by a change in work circumstances, or because the materials necessary for the execution of the work and

General Terms and Conditions of Sale and Delivery

Registered at the registrar of the court at on with number ordered by the provider for the execution of the work, were not delivered on time, the lead-time will be extended, if necessary.

3. The product is considered to be delivered vis-à-vis the lead-time, in the event that testing of the product is to be conducted in the provider's factory, and in other cases when it is ready to be shipped, after the client has been notified in writing. If delivery partial deliveries are made, each individual delivery is regarded as being delivered separately.

4. Without prejudice to provisions elsewhere in these terms and conditions with respect to the extension of the lead-time, the lead-time will be extended by the length of the delay, caused by the provider as a result of a failure by the client to comply with any of the agreement's obligations or with their cooperation with regard to the implementation of the agreement, or in the event of a change in the contract.

5. Except gross negligence on the part of the provider, the client is not Entitled to total or partial rescission of the agreement if the lead-time is exceeded. Exceeding the lead-time - for any reason - does not authorise the client to carry out work or have work carried out without the court's approval, in order to implement the agreement.

6. A contractual fine for a delay in lead-time must be considered instead of the client's possible right to compensation. Such a fine is not payable if the delay in lead-time is the result of force majeure.

7. For call contracts, the parties will reach binding agreements on deliveries within three months of the conclusion of the agreement. If this fails, the provider is entitled to cancel the agreement, without prejudice to their other rights, including the right to compensation.

Article VII Packaging/Delivery of Products

1. Products submitted by the client to the provider for processing must be delivered properly packed; the packaging must be suitable for reuse for delivery by the provider. Failure to comply shall result in packaging costs being charged to the client. The client is to return the packaging.

2. The need to use packaging when the products to be processed are delivered is determined by the provider.

3. All products to be processed must be provided with technical descriptions and/or drawings, including any given suspension points or contact points, if not, the provider is entitled to make use of standard suspension points or contact points.

4. Technical descriptions should in any event include the indication of quantity, weight, and type of applied products, nature, and chemical composition of the material, accuracy tolerances, heat treatment conditions and tension conditions, make and manufacturer, and if necessary regulations adopted by the manufacturer and/or instructions relating to the treatment of the relevant products.

5. Products to be processed must be suitable, i.e., not magnetic, without raw material, machining, and/or surface defects or contamination, without cracks, bursts or fractures, without pores and without unknown substances. The surfaces must be free from any surface treatment.

6. The provider is not obliged to check the quality and quantity of products offered, or to check whether processing thereof is possible, and/or if the information provided is accurate and/or sufficient. If the client wishes to conduct above checks, the nature and the contents of the checks must be agreed in writing. Thereafter the cost incurred shall be charged to the client.

7. Client will ensure that heavy and obstructive parts are equipped with adequate fittings and transport provisions.

8. Damages caused as a result of failure to comply or failure to comply in a timely manner with the terms and conditions under this Article shall be charged to the client.

Article VIII Testing and Takeover Test

1. The client shall inspect the product at the latest within 14 days of delivery as stated in Article VI par. 3. If this term concludes without any specific notice in writing of well-founded complaints, the product is considered to be accepted.
2. If a takeover test is approved, the client will give the provider the opportunity to carry out the necessary tests after receipt, as well as to carry out improvements and changes, the provider considers necessary.

The takeover test will take place immediately at the request of the provider, and will take place in the presence of the client. If the takeover test is carried out without specific and legitimate complaints or if the client does not comply with the above-mentioned obligations, the product shall be considered to have been accepted.
3. The client shall make available the necessary facilities for the takeover testing and for other possible tests, and provides representative samples for the processing of the materials in sufficient quantities, in a timely manner and free of charge, at the right location, to the provider, in order for the product's user environment to be duplicated to the extent possible. If the client does not comply, the last sentence of paragraph 2 shall apply.
4. In the event of minor imperfections, in particular those that will not affect or barely affect the planned use of the product, the product shall be accepted in spite of these imperfections. Where possible, the provider shall remedy such imperfections as quickly as possible.
5. Without prejudice to the obligation by the provider to comply with their guarantee commitments, the acceptance in accordance with the previous paragraphs shall exclude any claim by the client in terms of imperfections in the provider's performance.

Article IX Risk- and Transfer of Ownership

1. Immediately after the product is considered as delivered within the meaning of Article VI paragraph 3, the client shall bear the risk for all direct and indirect damage that might occur to, or from this product, except for gross negligence on the part of the provider.

If, for supply 'ex-works' the provider dispatches the product to the place of destination at the client's request, the risk will be transferred upon transfer of the product to the first carrier. Unless otherwise agreed, partial shipments are allowed. If the client, after formal notice, is unable to collect the product, the provider will be entitled to charge the client for storage fees for the product.
2. Damage to products caused by destruction of the packaging is at the expense and at the risk of the client.

Article X Payment

1. Unless otherwise agreed, payment of the agreed price shall be made within 30 days of invoice date. Prices will be increased with a credit surcharge of 2%. If payment is made within the agreed period this surcharge need not to be paid.
2. Payment of additional work is to be made as soon as billed to the client.
3. All payments must be made without any deduction or settlement at the premises of the provider or to their account.
4. If the client does not pay within the agreed deadlines, they shall automatically be deemed in default, which gives the provider without any formal notice the right to charge them interest of 3 points above the applicable laws in the Netherlands from the expiry date as well as all judicial and non-judicial fees related to the collection of the claim.
5. The provider has the right to request from the client sufficient security for the fulfilment of the contractual obligations by the client – at the provider's discretion, or to supply only under cash on delivery. If the client defaults, the provider is entitled to suspend the agreement or to cancel it, in accordance with Article XIV paragraphs 3 and 4.

Article XI Guarantee

1. Without prejudice to the limits laid down below and as stated in Article VIII paragraph 5, the provider guarantees the proper execution of the surface treatments, for 6 months after the delivery in accordance with Article VI paragraph 3. In view of special features, (hidden) defects or adverse shaping from/in the products to be processed, the provider does not guarantee a good result with respect to surface treatment.
2. Unless otherwise agreed, the provider will not perform incoming checks for the products to be processed; the provider is not responsible or accountable for products to be processed and/or for the quantity of the products to be processed. The accuracy of the requested processing is always at the expense and risk of the client, unless advice was provided about the process by the provider in advance and in writing. If the client deviates from the advice given by provider, the whole process shall take place at the expense and risk of the client.
3. The guarantee for defects as understood under paragraph 1, will be removed by the provider by processing the relevant products free of charge at the provider's factory. All costs exceeding the sole obligation as defined in the previous sentence, such as, but not limited to, transport costs, travel and subsistence expenses as well as costs for dismantling and assembly, shall be borne by the client.
4. Not included in the guarantee are the defects that occur in, or are wholly or partly the result of:
 - a. Non-compliance with operation and maintenance requirements other than the planned normal use.
 - b. Normal wear and tear.
 - c. Processing, assembly/installation, installation or repair by third parties, including the client.
 - d. The client will inspect the product no later than 14 days after delivery as intended in Article VI par. 3. If this term expires without a written and specified notification of legitimate grievances, the product is deemed to have been accepted.
 - e. Materials or items used in consultation with the client.
 - f. Materials or items supplied to the provider (for processing) by the client.
 - g. Materials, items, processes and structures, as explicitly applied in accordance with instructions by the client.
 - h. Information not provided, not provided in a timely manner, or not provided in full to the provider by the client.
 - j. Measurement devices not provided, not provided in a timely manner or not provided in full by the client necessary for the maintenance of given measurements.
 - k. Products and material obtained by the provider from third parties, insofar as said third parties did not give a guarantee to the provider. Colour and/or gloss differences regarded as normal by technical standards, cannot be considered as inadequate surface treatment.
5. If the client does not, cannot duly, or in a timely manner, meet any obligation that results from the agreement concluded with the provider, or results from a related agreement, regarding these agreements the provider is not obliged to provide any guarantee. If the client, without the prior written approval by the provider, dismantles, makes repairs or carries out other work to alter the product, or have it altered, all claims of guarantee will be cancelled.
6. Claims of defects are to be submitted in writing as soon as possible after their discovery, but no later than 14 days after the expiry of the guarantee period. In the event that these time limits are exceeded, any claim against the provider in respect of said defects will expire. Legal claims on this subject must be submitted to a court within one year on penalty of expiry.
7. If the provider replaces components/products, in order to comply with their guarantee obligations, the replaced parts/products shall become the property of the provider.
8. On the subject of repair executed, revision, or other services carried out by the provider, guarantee is only provided as to the good quality of the execution of the ordered work, for a period of 6 months, unless otherwise agreed. This guarantee includes the sole obligation of the provider, which is, in case of defects, to execute the job again, and repair the defect. If the client does not comply, the second sentence of paragraph 3 shall apply.

General Terms and Conditions of Sale and Delivery

9.No guarantee is provided with respect to inspections or recommendations and similar operations carried out by the provider.

10.Alleged non-compliance by the provider with their guarantee obligations does not relieve the client of the obligations that result from any agreement concluded with the provider.

Article XII Liability

1.The liability of the provider is limited to compliance with the terms defined in Article XI of the guarantee obligations conditions.

2.Except in case of gross negligence on the part of the provider and according to what is defined in paragraph 1, any liability on the part of the provider, such as consequential loss, other indirect damage and damage as a result of liability against third parties, is excluded.

In all cases in which, despite the provisions in the previous sentence, the provider is liable for damages by virtue of a judicial decision, compensation shall be limited to the maximum invoiced value of the relevant process by which the damage is caused.

3.Therefore the provider cannot be held responsible for:

- Infringement of patents, licences or other rights of third parties as a result of use of, by, or because data provided by the client.

- Damage or loss, for any reason, of raw materials, semi-finished products, models, tools and other materials, made available by the client. All the items and – so far as not already included – products to be processed in order to carry out an operation, supplied to the provider by the client, are held by the provider at the expenses and risk of the client; they are not insured by the provider.

4.If the provider, without having the assembly commissioned, provides assistance for the assembly and assistance of any nature whatsoever, this will take place at the risk of the client.

5.The client is to safeguard or indemnify the provider incurred for all claims by third parties for compensation for damage, to which the liability of the provider under these conditions in the relationship with the client is excluded.

Article XIII Force Majeure

The definition of force majeure in these General Terms and Conditions of Delivery is; any independent fact not anticipated by the provider - even though this was anticipated at the time of the conclusion of the agreement, which prevents the permanent or temporary fulfilment of the agreement, as well as, and if not already included; war, danger of war, civil war, riots, strikes, exclusion of personnel, transport difficulties, fire and other major disturbances in the factory of the provider or the latter's suppliers.

Article XIV Suspension and Cancellation

1.In the event that the provider is prevented from implementing the agreement due to force majeure, the provider is entitled without judicial intervention, either to suspend the implementation of the agreement for a maximum of 6 months, or to cancel the agreement in full or in part, without any claim for compensation.

During the suspension, the provider is entitled, and at the end they are obliged to choose to execute or to fully or partially rescind the agreement.

2.Both in the case of suspension and cancellation, pursuant paragraph 1, the provider is immediately entitled to demand payment for the reserved, processed, and manufactured raw materials, materials, components and other items, for the implementation of the agreement, for a reasonable value . In the event of cancellation pursuant to paragraph 1, the client must, after payment of the amount under the previous sentence, return the materials. Failure to do so will result in the provider being entitled to store, sell or destroy these materials at the expense and at the risk of the client.

3.In the event that the client does not meet or cannot meet any obligation, properly or in time, resulting from the agreement concluded
